

Mordant Wipes

PathAceto Wipes

Disposable 5% Acetic Acid
Cloth Mordant Wipes

Choosing a great drying/setting mordant for pathology grossing station marking inks/dyes has always involved compromise. Air drying works well as a mordant but it takes the most time to set. However, it is "free" and doesn't involve hazardous chemicals. Bouin's Fixative works well as a mordant but it is expensive and contains formaldehyde and other toxic chemicals that can cause allergic respiratory and skin reactions, eye damage, and possibly cancer.

White vinegar (5% acetic acid) is perhaps the best mordant. Inexpensive and it has no associated health or safety issues, the shelf life of vinegar is almost indefinite. It does not require refrigeration, is biodegradable, non-toxic, and safe for the environment. The biggest problem with using vinegar is in its application. Many Pathologists save time by submerging specimens in a container of vinegar, cancer cells and all, which will taint the specimen and other specimens submerged in the container.

A better solution is Mopec's Path Aceto Wipes. These wipes incorporate all of the positives of vinegar without having to worry about contamination from one specimen to the next. Path Aceto Wipes are 5" x 6" non-woven, disposable cloths. Saturated with 5% acetic acid, these cloths are packaged in an easy access pop up canister. Each container consists of a perforated roll of 160 cloth sheets, allowing them to feed individually. Convenient and economical.
